treasury, the cholera, and the filbusters have made. What was once patriotic, honest desire to put an end to corruption, heathenism, and misgovernment, and substitute pure sturdy republicanism for effete monarchical institutions, has now dwindled to "a mild home feud," and "a strictly family row."

The Star says that the prevalence of opium smuggling here is due to "silly subservency to mistaken sentiment." So is our present government due to the same.

Scintillates the Star in its usual inspirational style:

"Governments fully as enlightened and virtuous as the Government of these islands regulate the opium traffic and find no stain upon the national honor. Besides this, and here is an important point for Hawaii, they destroy the occupation of a lot of smugglers and smuggler hunters and add handsome sums to the public coffers."

What is the reason? The Queen was deposed because, it was said, that she favored regulation of the opium traffic and had signed a bill to that effect, after being recommended to do so by her Cabinet on its passage by a majority of the representatives of the people. Are we now, on account of our depleted treasury, to look for another revolution to depose the Dole executive because they, too, will pass an opium license? Cannot our "enlightened and virtuous" government raise money without an opium tax? Will they—if they make one—suffer the same penalty as the Queen? Or will the "virtuous and enlightened" Central Union Church members forgive them because they have done so instead of raising the taxes?

One of the arguments for annexation, P. C. Jones, in his article in the Overland Monthly, is that increased revenues would result from the customs duties on account of the proposition that "the consumption of many English and German goods will be largely increased." This may be cheering to those who deal in them here, but doesn't look to us much like an inducement to the United States people to annex us.

Although no doubt caused by an error of the foreman in making up by transposition of the lines the following from last night's Bulletin gives too funny a result for us to not to help in its publication abroad.

"Henry Olds, son of James Olds, while passing the residence of the British Minister on King street at 11 o'clock this morning, upon his bicycle, was thrown from his wheel and fell under the heels of the mules of a passing tramcar. He was struck on the head and quite severely wounded. Luckily he fell between the rails, and although the car passed danger. The accident, was due to the chain connection over him, he was otherwise uninjured.
Dr. Murray attended him and pronounces him out of slipping off the sprocket of his machine."

How Dr. Murray has discovered this new and dangerous variety of disease we are not told.

All water courses in this country run into the sea. Owing to the nature of the land—its rapid fall, and irregular surface—the speed of all streams is quite sufficient to cleanse the whole course rapidly.
It is only at the outlet when, coming in contact with the heavier waters of the ocean, the stream deposits its substances hitherto held in solution or borne in its hurrying waters.
There at the outlet and there only will be found traces of any contagion it may have contained even as shortly as twenty-four hours after the deposit of the contaminating matter.

To close them out Shirt Waists, formerly selling at $1.50 each, have been reduced to $1; and Pith Hats, which were selling at $2, from this on will be sold at $1 each. Call early before the supply is exhausted. A. Barnes, New Republic Building, King street.
